

I am planning to import Italian honey that has been certified organic in Italy by an NOP Accredited Certifying Agent. Does this automatically mean that the honey is certified organic in the USA? How can I find out if it is certified to NOP standards?

If the honey is certified to the NOP standards, and bears a USDA organic seal on the package, and is certified by a USDA-accredited certifying agent, you can be assured the honey meets the NOP standards. To be sure, contact the certifying agent who appears on the label and verify that the honey was certified to the NOP. It cannot be imported to the United States otherwise.
